EXTRACT of a Letter from Moses Corbet, Esq; Lieutenant-Governor of Jersey, to the Lord Viscount Weymouth.

From the Heights of Ouen's Bay, attending to the Motions of the Enemy. Jersey, May 1, Three o'Clock in the Afternoon.

EARLY this Morning Five large Vessels, and a great Number of Boats (which afterwards appeared to be French) were seen within Three Leagues of the Coast; from whence they proceeded to St. Ouen's Bay, in order, by a Coup de Main, to effect a Landing. The Cutters and Small Craft, intended to cover their Disembarkation, came so near as to throw some Grape Shot, and the Boats were at Hand to effect their Purpose; but by the spirited March of the 78th, and the Militia of the Island, with some few of the Artillery of the Island which we were able to drag through the heavy Sands, they were beat off, and obliged to give up their hostile Intentions in that Bay, without any other Loss on our Side than a few Men wounded by the bursting of a Cannon; but the Enemy remains within about a League of the Coast, lying to, in order as we suppose, when the Tide permits, to make a further Attempt; in which Case nothing shall be wanting on our Part. The King's Troops and Militia have already gone through great Fatigue, and shew a Spirit beyond my Power to describe.

Admiralty-Office, May 8, 1779.

IN Consequence of Intelligence received last Week of an Attack intended to be made by the French on the Islands of Jersey and Guernsey, Orders were immediately dispatched to the Commanding Officers of His Majesty's Ships at Portsmouth and Plymouth, to send a Number of Frigates and Sloops for the Protection of those Islands; since which Two Letters to Mr. Stephens have been received from Admiral Arbuthnot, of which the following are Extracts.

Europe, at Sea, May 2, Ten o'Clock, A. M.

HAVING this Moment learnt, that the Island of Jersey was Yesterday Morning attacked by Five French Ships of War, several Bomb-Vessels, and Fifty Boats, which were landing Men at Eleven o'Clock, I desire you will please to acquaint their Lordships therewith, and that I think it my Duty to give every possible Relief to it; for which Purpose I am now shaping my Course thither.

Europe, at Sea, May 6.

I Omitted in my Letter of the 2d to inform their Lordships, that by the Vessel dispatched, for their Information, of the Intelligence I had received of Jersey being attacked, I had also sent a Duplicate of it to Admiral Sir Thomas Pye; who, I find by his Letter which I received last Night, transmitted to me by the Governor of Guernsey, was sending a very sufficient Force for the Security of those Islands.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Guernsey acquaints me, that a Boat from Jersey arrived at Guernsey on Sunday, and says that an Armament attempted to land, but could not accomplish their Design; that they then stood out to Sea, and have returned either to St. Cas Bay, or to Cape Frehel. Captain Ford of the Unicorn has, in my Opinion, a Force under his Command sufficient for the Protection of those Islands: I therefore leave the Direction of the King's Service there in his Hands; and am now proceeding to Torbay, to rejoin the Trade;

Trade; and, in my Way, expect to be joined by the Experiment, which I detached the Evening before last to Guernsey.

In all these Transactions, it has been my constant Endeavour to deserve their Lordships Approbation of my Conduct.

St. James's, May 5.

The King was this Day pleased to confer the Honour of Knighthood upon Thomas Fowke, Esq; of Lowesby Hall, Leicestershire; Charles Gould, Esq; of Ealing in the County of Middlesex; and Hew Dalrymple, Esq; of the Athol Regiment of Highlanders: And they had the Honour to kiss His Majesty's Hand on the Occasion.

St. James's, May 6.

The King has been pleased to nominate the Earl of Dalhousie to be His High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland.

Dresden, April 28. A few Days ago General Mollendorff dispatched a Trumpet to Field-Marshal Haddick, informing him that he should continue the Suspension of Arms, which was to have finished on the 28th of this Month, until he had fresh Orders to recommence Hostilities. The Field Marshal accordingly communicated this Circumstance to the Officers commanding on the Frontiers; and the Armistice is still to be exactly observed on both Sides.

WEYMOUTH.

And, as a farther Encouragement, the Earl of Rochford doth hereby promise a Reward of FIFTY POUNDS, to any Person or Persons making such Discovery as aforesaid, (except as before excepted) to be paid by William Garwood, Steward to the Earl of Rochford, at St. Osyth aforesaid, upon the Conviction of any one or more of the the said Offenders.
